The Rutgers Coaching Staff

Harvey L. Harman, Head Coach

ENTERING his second decade as head coach of Rutgers football, Harvey J. Harman has compiled one of the finest college records in the nation. Since he first came to the banks of the Raritan in 1938, he has piloted ten Scarlet teams to 62 triumphs in 86 games. The record of his postwar teams (1946-51) ranks among the best in the country among major colleges.

Past president of the American Football Coaches Association, Harman has been associated with the sport since he was 13, first as player and later as a coach and administrator. He played at New Castle, Pa., High School and Peabody High in Pittsburgh. Entering the University of Pittsburgh in 1918, he immediately won a starting tackle berth under Glenn S. (Pop) Warner. He missed the starting lineup only once in four years at Pitt and won All-American recognition.

He earned additional letters in track and was president of his junior and senior classes. Harman received his A.B. from Pitt in 1922 and began his coaching career at Haverford that fall. Meanwhile, he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania until he earned a Master's Degree in government.

Harman remained at Haverford until 1930, when he became athletic director and coach of football and track at Sewanee, the University of the South. A year later, he went to Penn, where he remained as coach of football until he resigned in December, 1937. His appointment at Rutgers followed.

His first season at Rutgers won him a permanent place of honor in Scarlet football history when his gridders defeated Princeton in the famous 20 to 18 triumph which dedicated the new Rutgers Stadium. It marked the first Rutgers win over the Tigers since 1869. The only loss of the first season was to N.Y.U. and his second Scarlet eleven lost only to Brown. Single losses have marred otherwise spotless records of three of his Rutgers teams.

Following the outbreak of World War II, Harman laid aside his coaching togs and replaced them with Navy blue. Leaving Rutgers in the spring of 1942, he served as director of athletics at North Carolina Pre-Flight in Chapel Hill, was transferred to a similar post at Iowa Pre-Flight, and later saw combat duty in the Pacific aboard one of the Navy's largest carriers. He was full commander at the time of his return to Rutgers late in 1945.

Harman holds the academic rank of professor in the Department of Physical Education at the State University. An active and popular figure in civic and religious affairs, Harman has been a deacon of the Second Reformed Church of New Brunswick and has served on many local committees. He is past president of the Navy V-5 Association, and a member of Kiwanis, Phi Gamma Delta, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, and the University Club of Philadelphia. He has been an active supporter and organizer in the National Football Hall of Fame movement since its inception a few years ago.

*Harman on war-time leave of absence in Naval Reserve from 1942-1945.

Arthur A. Matsu, Backfield Coach

SENIOR member of the Rutgers coaching staff in tenure, Art Matsu has been in the department of athletics since 1931. He now holds the rank of associate professor in physical education. Matsu is in his ninth season as varsity backfield coach, an assignment he shares with Eddie Masavage. Art starred as a player at William and Mary in football, basketball, and track. After graduation he was freshman grid coach at his alma mater before coming to Rutgers in 1931. He was an assistant varsity coach of the Scarlet until 1936, coached the freshmen that season, and was back with the varsity in 1937. Matsu coached the freshmen again in 1938 then served two years as director of athletic publicity. He received his present varsity assignment in 1944.

Edward S. Masavage, Backfield Coach

WIRY Eddie Masavage has been associated with Harvey Harman almost continuously since 1931, first as a player, then as a coach, later in the Navy and again as a member of the Rutgers coaching staff. Masavage played two years of varsity football under Harman at Penn. Upon his graduation in 1933, he joined Harman's staff as varsity backfield assistant and coach of Penn's 150-pound varsity. He came to Rutgers with Harman in 1938 and coached the backfield until he entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. Eddie was stationed with Harman at North Carolina Pre-Flight, then went to sea aboard the aircraft carrier Essex for 18 months. Following his discharge with the rank of lieutenant commander, he returned to Rutgers to team with Art Matsu as backfield coach of the Scarlet.

Alexander Sabo, Line Coach

ONE of Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite," Al Sabo is in his 13th season of coaching at Rutgers this fall. Sabo is a "home town" athlete from New Brunswick. He came to Rutgers as freshman line coach after his graduation from Fordham in 1936. He worked with the varsity the following season, returned to the freshmen in 1938, and became Harman's end coach in 1940. Like Harman and Masavage, Al entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. He rose to the rank of lieutenant commander while serving in French Morocco and returned to Rutgers in time for the 1946 season. Before the war, big Al was a professional baseball catcher with the Washington Senators from 1936-38.

Jack L. Maddox, End Coach

ANOTHER former Rutgers football and lacrosse player, Jack (Duke) Maddox joined Harvey Harman's staff in 1950 after earning a national reputation in prep school coaching. A graduate of Manlius School, Maddox first attended Duke and later earned his degree at Rutgers. After a brief business career, he entered coaching at Valley Forge Military Academy in 1942. He went to Bullis School in 1947 and coached the top prep school team in the nation. His Bullis team was the first prep eleven ever to beat both the Army and Navy plebe teams in the same season. He holds the rank of assistant professor in physical education.

Otto H. Hill, Freshman Coach

CENTER on Harvey Harman's 1941 eleven, Otto Hill is starting his sixth season as a grid coach. After a stint in the Air Force, he returned to Rutgers in 1946. He won Rutgers letters in football and lacrosse and played service football. He Coached the junior varsity in 1947 and 1948 and has been head coach of the Scarlet freshman teams for the past three seasons.

Rutgers Athletic Administration

Harry J. Rockefeller, Acting Director of Athletics

REGARDED as one of the best known figures associated with Scarlet athletics, "Rocky" entered Rutgers in 1912. He starred in four years of football, basketball, baseball, and track. After serving in the war and in business for several years, he returned to Rutgers in 1924 as graduate manager. He was named head coach of football in 1927. In four years his teams won 19 and lost 16 games. In 1930, he resigned as coach in favor of administrative duties. In 1932, he became 150-pound varsity coach and his lightweight elevens were undefeated in 18 games, winning Eastern Intercollegiate titles in 1933, 1934, and 1935. He coached varsity football during World War II, compiling a record of 14 wins, 10 losses and one tie in four wartime years.

George E. Little, Director of Athletics (On Leave)

A LEADING figure in athletics for more than 30 years, George Little has had a great record as player, coach, and administrator. In charge of Rutgers athletics since 1931, he was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1912 after a brilliant football and track career. Starting his coaching career at Cincinnati, he went to Miami (Ohio) University in 1916. He left to serve overseas during World War I and returned as director of athletics. He went to Michigan in 1922, becoming head football coach in 1924. A year later, he was appointed director and head football coach at Wisconsin. He resigned as coach in 1927 to devote his full time to administration. Little remained at Wisconsin until he accepted his Rutgers position in 1931. Because of illness, Little is on leave of absence.

Richard L. Voliva, 150-Pound Varsity Coach

A STAR in football and track and a National Intercollegiate wrestling champion at Indiana University, Dick Voliva coached those sports at Montclair State Teachers College after competing in the 1936 Olympics. He was an Army major during World War II. Since he came to Rutgers in 1945, he has been varsity wrestling coach and has served as 150-pound grid coach for the past four years. Last winter, his wrestling team compiled one of the best records in Rutgers' mat history.

Alexander G. Sidar, Jr., 150-Pound Assistant Coach

FORMER Rutgers lightweight football star and varsity wrestler, Alex Sidar has served as assistant coach in both these sports for the past few years. An assistant professor in physical education, Sidar also helps coach track.

Scarlet Player Notes

Ends

JOHN ARTHUR, senior. A versatile and experienced ball player, Arthur can operate effectively on both offense and defense. He blocks well and can handle the PAT chores, if necessary.

THOMAS CAPPELLETTI, sophomore. Primed to replace the departed Hal Corizzi on the flank, young Tom broke into varsity action last fall as a freshman and has a bright future. Fast and evasive, he is a slick receiver.

JAMES DAVIS, junior. Another two-platoon, Davis is a deceptive receiver and a bone-rattling defensive operator. He sparkled on defense last year, where he rated a first-team assignment.

NORMAN DRISCOLL, junior. A standout with the junior varsity last season, Driscoll packs plenty of wallop in his 195 pounds and is a two-way guy.

EDWARD DUDA, junior. An all-around wing prospect, Duda broke into action several times last year, as a sophomore, and may rate a starting nod on offense or defense this fall.

BRUCE JOHNSON, sophomore. A jayvee standout and all-around athlete last year, Bruce is a keen addition to the end squad. Son of a Rutgers botany professor, he could shape into an excellent defensive ace.

JAMES O'BRIEN, sophomore. A stocky six-footer, O'Brien is another strong yearling candidate who can be called upon for two-way service.

RUSSELL SANDBLOM, senior. One of the nation's best receiving ends, bullish Russ is a touchdown threat every time he heads downfield. Circus catches which defy defenders are his specialty. Solid and speedy.

DONALD SHWEDO, junior. A prime prospect a year ago, Shwedo sat out the 1951 campaign with an injury. Back in shape, he looked strong this spring.

Tackles

HOWARD ANDERSON, senior. Biggest man on the Rutgers team Howie is a whale of a defensive tackle. Son of a former Rutgers halfback, Anderson should rate among the East's outstanding tackles in 1952. Fast, agile, and strong.

JOHN BILLHEIMER, sophomore. A stocky local lad from Highland Park, "Bull" was a crackerjack defensive operator on the jayvee squad in 1951. He could meet the challenge of veteran stars to win a starting role.

NUNZIO COLLARENO, junior. A freshman standout two years ago, Nunzio failed to come through last season but could hit his stride in '52. He has great defensive potential.

RICHARD HEMMER, sophomore. An unsung newcomer as a freshman, Dick eclipsed several known performers with his brilliant junior varsity play last season and could win a starting role on offense.

RALPH JOHNSON, sophomore. A fast-moving 190-pounder, Johnson is at home in the tackle slot but could develop into a defensive end.

ROBERT JOHNSTON, sophomore. A compact six-footer, Johnston showed the potential of a fine lineman in spring drills.

RICHARD KOSSMAN, sophomore. A rangy 190-pounder, Kossman figures strongly in the defensive plans either at tackle or end.

LESLIE MILLER, junior. Big 1951 plans for Les fell through when he was idled by an injury. A powerful 230-pounder, he is slated for plenty of action with the defensive forces, where he usually operates.

JOSEPH SCALIOTTA, senior. Steadiest man on the Rutgers line, Big Joe has been an ace defensive tackle for two varsity campaigns. He hits hard and fast and is a smothering tackler.

Guards

KENNETH BOSSOW, sophomore. A tank-like watch-charm guard, Ken broke into the varsity lineup on several occasions as a freshman. He is a hard man to move in the slot and backs up the line, as well.

RUDY CELIGOI, senior. A solid 200-pound veteran of two varsity seasons, Rudy can make the grade on either offense or defense, although the former is his specialty.

ALBERT COLELLA, sophomore. A rugged New Englander, Colella has strong potential as a defensive lineman, either at guard or tackle.

WILLIAM DOLIBER, junior. One of the biggest among the guards, Bill is a veteran campaigner who could handle an assignment on either platoon.

WILLIAM DUKES, junior. A transfer making his first bid at Rutgers, "Duke" impressed in the springtime and could blossom in the fall.

JOHN (BY) O'HEARN, sophomore. Ace candidate among the soph linemen, "By" saw considerable varsity action last season. A former All-Met guard, he is an outstanding defensive linebacker and can go both ways, if necessary.

ERRICO PACILIO, senior. Mightiest mite among the guards, Ed is huge in everything but size. One of the oldest members of the squad, he has plenty of skill and savvy. He can explode on either offense or defense.

Centers

JOSEPH AMBROSE, senior. "The Young Bull" is half of the Scarlet's double threat at center, where he can perform ably on either offense or defense. His 205 pounds stand up like solid rock and he moves fast.

JOSEPH DADDARIO, senior. Surprise of the 1951 season, Joe developed into a rugged 200-pound regular, with the ability to work on both offense and defense. A steady performer with great potentialities.

ALFRED FREIMARK, junior. Number One pivotman of the jayvee squad last season, chunky Al will prove an able reserve behind Ambrose and Daddario.

Quarterbacks

FRANK AZZARITA, junior. A local transfer student, "Azzie" may have the stuff to solve the quarterback problem neatly. An experienced operator, he is rangy, swift, and deft in his ball-handling.

DONALD DREIER, senior. "Butch" outfought a seasoned veteran for the quarterback post last year and should hit his stride in 1952. Compact and solid, he is a good ball-handler, a fine passer, and a potent runner.

JOHN FENNELL, sophomore. Ace signal-caller and passer for last year's once-beaten jayvee eleven, Jack is a brilliant tosser and a lot more rugged than his slight build indicates.

JOHN JEFFERS, junior. Confined to junior varsity and understudy roles, Jeffers could unfold as a "sleeper" in the T-slot ranks. A hard worker and a strong competitor, he may win a starting role.

Halfbacks

JAMES DURFEE, junior. Graduating from the junior varsity ranks, Durfee will emerge as a fine varsity reserve. He is a hard runner with quick-cutting ability.

STEVE JOHNSON, sophomore. Sprightly speedster of the junior varsity backfield last season, Steve saw some varsity duty. An all-around performer, he runs hard from right half and can turn a defensive chore, as well.

BERNARD KELLY, sophomore. A dark-horse backfield candidate, fleet-footed Bernie may solve a particularly tough safetyman problem.

RONALD MASTROLIA, sophomore. A lightweight speedster, Ron was a freshman standout in both football and basketball. He is great in the open field and a swift climax runner.

RICHARD MILLER, junior. A workhorse for the jayvees last year, Dick may win a varsity spot this year at either of the halfback positions.

THOMAS MOFFETT, sophomore. Another junior varsity graduate, Tom is a fast-breaking threat at halfback and is quite a ball-hawk on defense.

ROBERT MOSHER, junior. Tabbed "Bullet Bob" for his terminal thrusts as a freshman, Mosher was sidelined with book problems last season but is a man to watch in the 1952 campaign.

RONALD OWENS, senior. Ace climax runner and defensive gem with the Scarlet's 150-pound varsity for two seasons, Ron makes a bid for the heavyweight squad, bearing lots of experience and know-how.

ROBERT REDMAN, sophomore. Star halfback of last year's jayvees, Bobby has great potential and already is tabbed as a varsity starter on offense. He is quick and slippery and can go the distance. He was Michigan's highest high school scorer in 1950.

JOSEPH TRIGGS, junior. Tricky hips and climax speed make Joe the Number One right halfback contender. He is a great "all-the-way" runner and can play a brilliant defensive game at safetyman, as well.

Fullbacks

DONALD DUNCAN, junior. New Jersey's top school boy athlete in 1949, Don now packs a solid 200 pounds and can hit like a bull. One of the nation's top PAT specialist's last year, he can pass well, punt a mile, and back up the line with the best of them. Tabbed for two-platoon duty.

ANGELO IANNUCCI, sophomore. Groomed to replace the great Jimmy Monahan, Angie is Ohio's gift to the Scarlet. A shifty-footed 190-pounder, he packs speed to burn and a powerhouse wallop through the line.

ROBERT KAPLAN, senior. A veteran jack-of-all trades, Bob faces his third varsity season with Rutgers. Compact and solid, he can go either way—backing up the line on defense.

After a disastrous first season at the head of the Mules, youthful coach Thomas Triplett looks for brighter things this fall. He moved into the top job in 1951.

THE SCARLET'S HOME GROUNDS

Rutgers Stadium is the heart of a million-dollar athletic plant situated on the University Heights campus. The Stadium area embraces 270 acres of gently rolling hills. Facilities include a nine-hole golf course, several baseball diamonds, six playing fields, and two practice gridirons.

The Stadium seats 23,000. The field is of turtle-back construction and is surrounded by a track modeled after the Los Angeles Olympic oval. One of the nation's best tracks, it has eight lanes on the curves and backstretch, with a 12-lane, 220-yard straightaway.

Stands are of reinforced concrete with wooden seats. A modern field house runs the length of the East stands and contains dressing rooms and offices. A well-equipped press box crowns the West stands, providing for more than 100 writers with telegraph and telephone service. Both ends of the press box have glass enclosed broadcasting booths, topped by photographers' platforms.

Tiger's Greatest Coach

Charley Caldwell, Princeton's 15th football coach, has been the most successful mentor in Tiger grid history and the first to develop five straight "Big Three" champions. His record of 38 wins in 58 games includes at least one epic upset each fall. Eastern champion and undefeated for the past two campaigns, his Tigers carry a 22-game winning streak into the 1952 fray.

New Face Among the Raiders

Something new is added to the Colgate football scene this fall in the person of Harold (Hal) Lahar, successor to Paul Bixler as coach of the Red Raiders. Lahar starred on the line for Oklahoma's 1938 Orange Bowl gridders and saw a raft of service in professional football with the Chicago Bears and the Buffalo Bills. His coaching career began at Arkansas in 1949 and he was line coach at West Virginia for two seasons before making the switch to Colgate.

RUTGERS — FOOTBALL'S PIONEER

Rutgers pioneered American intercollegiate football in an historic game played with Princeton on November 6, 1869, on College Field, the plot of ground where the present-day Rutgers Gymnasium stands in New Brunswick. Football in its embryonic state bore striking if rustic resemblance to its modern version. Playing under primitive rules with 25 men on each team, the original Scarlet "eleven" defeated the invading Princeton squad, six goals to four. The challenge for the first game was issued by Rutgers students in hope of avenging a 40-2 baseball defeat by Princeton in 1866. The Tigers accepted the challenge and rules were drawn up. Employed in the first game were crude rudiments of such later mayhem as the flying wedge, sleepers, and the first incident of a player kicking the ball toward the wrong goal.

Veteran McLaughry at the Helm

One of the most popular and respected of the nation's football coaches, DeOrmond (Tuss) McLaughry has been a fixture on the college scene since 1916. A star gridder while at Westminster College, McLaughry coached at his alma mater, Amherst, Brown, and moved in at Dartmouth in 1941. He has had marked success in every assignment and has given Dartmouth some of its strongest squads of Indian raiders.

HISTORY OF RUTGERS—1766-1952

Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, began as a struggling colonial college before the Revolution. Founded in 1766 by Dutch pioneers, Rutgers was originally called Queens College under a charter from King George III of England. The young college's existence was threatened by the Revolution, but growth followed that conflict, just as unprecedented expansion was experienced after the last World War.

Rutgers was given its present name in 1825, after generous gifts has been received from Colonel Henry Rutgers, a New York philanthropist. Forty years later it was designated the Land Grant College of New Jersey, the liberal arts course was enlarged, and courses leading to bachelor degrees in agriculture and engineering were added.

In 1902 a ceramics department was established, New Jersey College for Women with its own New Brunswick campus, was founded in 1918; the School of Education added in 1923; and in 1925 the Extension Division for non-degree education and the School of Journalism were established. The College of Pharmacy was added in 1927. University College, degree-granting evening division, was established in 1934, and Newark University was merged with Rutgers in 1946. In 1945, the State Legislature brought all divisions of Rutgers within the designation of the State University of New Jersey.

Things Look Bright for Kelley

Taking over his first head coaching job at Brown last fall, Alva Kelley provided an exciting if not successful season in his debut. A former All-East end from Cornell, Kelley entered the coaching field after World War II. Reserves from last year's crack freshman array are expected to bolster the Bruin's offense and defense in 1952.

Kawal's Giant-Killing Owls

Crafty Al Kawal has made it a point to include major upsets in his bag of tricks and this year's schedule will see them at work against a rugged schedule. A former Big Ten football and basketball captain at Northwestern, Kawal coached some brilliant teams at Drake. Before coaching at Drake, he was at Michigan State and Boston University. He holds a two to one edge over Rutgers since he entered the rivalry in 1949.

THE LITTLE BRASS CANNON

The Little Brass Cannon, the latest addition to the Rutgers cannon tradition dating back to the Revolutionary War, has been temporarily retired because of the scheduling lapse between Rutgers and Lehigh. The Little Brass Cannon was presented to Rutgers in 1931 and has been the symbol of Middle Three supremacy on the gridiron since 1940. Lafayette won the Cannon the first year it was on the block and held it until 1945. Rutgers retrieved it that year and held it four more seasons, until Lehigh scored its first capture in 1951. Lehigh successfully defended the trophy last season and retired it until the Middle Three rivalry resumes in 1954. The Rutgers tradition dates back to the bitter "Cannon Wars" waged between Rutgers and Princeton students during the last century.

Hokuf Bows in with the Marquis

Steve M. Hokuf provides another new face across the field as he assumes the coaching reins at Lafayette, succeeding Clipper Smith. A former star end at Nebraska, Hokuf entered the coaching field at Colorado School of Mines in 1936 and served at Wyoming from 1937 through 1942, when he entered the Navy. After the war, he was line coach of the pro football Brooklyn Dodgers, served at Columbia in 1949 and 1950, and completed a year at Pittsburgh before coming to Lafayette.

Rip the Ringmaster

Facing his third season as head coach of the Nittany Lions, Charles (Rip) Engle purportedly has the powerhouse of the East. A Dick Harlow product of Western Maryland, Engle gave Brown some of its toughest postwar elevens before heading West. After ten years in high school coaching, Engle joined the Brown staff in 1942. He took over the head coaching task in 1944 and left for Penn State in 1950. He fashions an explosive wing-T attack which is hard to stop.

Devore Paints a Brighter Violet

Entering his third season at New York University, Hugh Devore feels his previous efforts should pay off this fall in a brighter, tougher Violet, with solid sophomores providing the pay-off punch. A Notre Dame product, Devore held coaching jobs at Notre Dame, Fordham, Providence, and Holy Cross before his successful tenure at Saint Bonaventure. A New Jersey native, Devore was an All-American and captain of the Irish. He began his grid career at St. Benedict's Prep in Newark.

FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

Reproduced above is the architect's drawing of the proposed National Football Hall of Fame. The tentative site for the grid shrine is on the heights to the North of the Rutgers Stadium. Rutgers was selected as the location for the Hall of Fame because America's first intercollegiate football game was played on the Rutgers campus on November 6, 1869, between Rutgers and Princeton.

Newest tradition on the Rutgers campus is the annual Hall of Fame Football Game, inaugurated between Rutgers and Brown in 1950. Last fall, Fordham met Rutgers in the second game commemorating the founding of the shrine at the State University. New York University, another gridiron pioneer, will be the Scarlet's opposition in the third game to be played in the Rutgers Stadium on November 22, 1952.

Last year's Hall of Fame Game was marked by the first electoral meeting of the directors of the Hall of Fame. At that time, 32 former players and 21 former coaches were immortalized by election to football's highest honor.

This spring, George E. Little, now on leave of absence from his post as Rutgers' Athletic Director, was chosen executive secretary of the Hall of Fame. Little succeeded the late Arthur L. Evans, Syracuse football historian who was the shrine's first executive secretary and a founder of the Hall of Fame Movement.

All inquiries concerning the Football Hall of Fame may be directed to Mr. Little or to William H. MacKenzie, Sports Information Office, Rutgers University.
